“Touch Systems” Ltd.

The software TouchInform is protected by patent law and the application code is protected against unauthorized copying. Player has limitations as far as the period of program continuous running is concerned; and its main screen displays a message that this version is a Demo. The abovementioned limitations will be eliminated after the program activation - after acquiring the software license key. The activation procedure of Player is described below.

1. Please install all the components and the application itself.
2. Start the license requestor C:\TouchInform\TSRuntime\TSKeyAsst.exe (the application location directory may be changed, if it was selected during the installation process).

3. Please fill in the mandatory field Rightsholder - name of the company that acquired the rights for the TouchInform software use.
4. Please fill in the mandatory field License Identification Code, which will be provided by your Retailer. Otherwise please contact the Software Producer (e-mail is provided in paragraph 6)
5. Press the button <Create>. After generating a request, the application will ask the location to save the request file.

6. Submit a license activation request filling the Subject field "TouchInform Activation" and e-mail us at software.support@touch.ru. In text of the message please specify name of the company, the rights for the product end-use will be transferred to.
7. Please wait and you will get the file with the following extension: .licensekey.

8. Copy the file you received to the directory C:\TouchInform\TSRuntime**
(the location directory may be changed, if it was selected during the installation process)
9. Now you should launch Player and make sure there is no mark “Demo version” on the screen.
10. Then check the name of company that acquired the rights for the software use in the main application window in the information about the program, clicking on the clock.
11. The license file contains information about the system modules available for display in Player. If some of the modules aren't available to you, please contact your Retailer.
12. Thank you. The program is ready for continuous running.
